BIONICS OF THE FUTURE
- I want to Walk
For one, the hotel is housed in a stately 100-year-old historic mansion that has been meticulously preserved and tastefully converted into a design marvel. Then there is the art displayed in the hotel and its grounds that add certain flair and a whole lot of drama.

The concept of Macalister Mansion is one of artful luxury; one that goes beyond the ordinary realm of luxury boutique hotels. From its specially commissioned art pieces by renowned local and international artists to designer furniture and elegant yet masculine architecture, the hotel encapsulates the perfect idealistic project that aims to strike a balance between the nostalgia of the past and a vision of relevance for the future.

Macalister Mansion is designed in such a way to ensure each aspect of the hotel resembles the different quarters of an old English Mansion. The hotel’s fine dining space is named ‘Dining Room’ while the all-day casual dining space is aptly named ‘Living Room’. Its cigar and whiskey bar is called ‘The Den’ and ‘The Cellar’ houses the hotel’s wine lounge. Having eight guest rooms, each with a distinct design and theme, the accommodation entity of Macalister Mansion is named ‘Eight Rooms’. As for the hotel’s outdoor space with its striking swimming pool and perfectly manicure lawn, it is called ‘The Lawn’.

Dining at Macalister Mansion is just as artful as anything else in the hotel. At the heart of this majestic mansion is the ‘Dining Room’ – a whimsical, fantastical and playful fine dining playground. While still meticulously adhering to the high ideals of an international establishment of fine dining, ‘Dining Room’ cleverly pair modern touches and hints of local flavours with Contemporary French cuisine.

Keeping its offerings constantly fresh, ‘Dining Room’ revamps its menu every two months, with well-received dishes added to the A La Carte Menu so that patrons can still savour them in the future. Besides the A La Carte Menu, ‘Dining Room’ offers the ‘Tasting Menu’, which comprises of two different menus – the 8 course ‘Host Table’ and the 5 course ‘Small Eats’. To further enhance the dining experience, both the menus come with optional wine pairing of the best wines for each course. It does not get any more decadent than that.

‘Dining Room’ has also been making waves as a much-coveted event venue for high society weddings, birthday parties, soirées and ROM celebrations, as well as even corporate events and presentation. Set amidst its fantastical backdrop, ‘Dining Room’ is transformed from a private dining area into a spacious and gorgeous event locale that can comfortably seat 130 people. With extravagant food, marvellous setting and a touch of drama and class, any event held at ‘Dining Room’ is sure to be the talk of the town.
